

BACKGROUND

At CWG, sustainability is our business. We are the leading wireless handset recycler serving the telecommunications industry, and have positioned ourselves as the global repurposing source for carriers and manufacturers of mobile devices.

CWG provides a turnkey solution that can manage all aspects of reverse logistics including end-of-life and take-back programs, repair, refurbishment, secure data erasure, resale, reuse, reclamation and the environmentally safe disposal of wireless handsets, parts, accessories and batteries.

We honor a strict zero-landfill policy, harvest parts down to the component level, salvage all reusable materials, such as precious metals, plastic and glass; and perform all disposals in an environmentally responsible manner. Our services keep waste generation down, reduce greenhouse gas emissions, keep materials like plastic and copper out of landfills, and conserve natural resources.

In addition, CWG's proprietary DataR software provides the most secure erasure and content validation product on the market. This ensures carriers, manufacturers and customers have both peace of mind, and protection, that all previous user information has been removed prior to reuse or resale. We also provide overstock, warehousing and fulfillment services, and the complete management of take-back programs that includes all implementation, marketing, logistical, finance and customer service aspects.

Formed in 2006 by four partners, today CWG is guided by its founders, and esteemed veterans of the telecommunications industry. The Executive Leadership team collectively possesses over 150 years of wireless communications experience, and their vast portfolio of knowledge, and long-standing relationships within the wireless industry, confer CWG with unparalleled competitive advantages.

The company's business model was built around the concept of reuse, with the belief that creating sustainability is both productive and profitable. We use only sound recycling practices, operate all our facilities in compliance with EPA and Environment Canada guidelines, and work only with accredited refiners.

CWG has over 400 employees and is headquartered in Bohemia, NY; with additional locations in Chicago; Hong Kong; Shenzhen and BeiHai, China.

